CXT Software Now Offers Document Imaging, Storage and Retrieval Capability

Phoenix, AZ – August 24, 2007 – CXT Software, a leading edge provider of same day courier software announces the recent addition of document scanning and attachment capabilities to its state of the art business application for delivery companies, X Dispatch.

Users of X Dispatch now have the ability to attach files to orders, customer records, and human resource records within X Dispatch. Those users with document scanners that have multi-page document feeders can also attach multiple pages at a time. Keeping track of order related paperwork is now much easier for CXT Software customers.

Customers placing orders online for delivery now have the ability to attach documents to their orders as well. Documents that require signature by the receiving party can be attached to the order online by the customer, printed by the delivery company and then signed by the recipient. The signed document can be scanned back into the system by the delivery company and the customer can retrieve it online. This technology opens up a whole new way to share documents between delivery companies and their customers. And with the documents being stored in the database, the need for a paper trail is virtually eliminated.

“Integrated document scanning, storage, and retrieval are features that many delivery companies require and we are pleased to deliver these enhancements to our valued customers” said Dan Calderone, President, CXT Software. “Our customers can store and exchange electronic documents with their clients without any additional software investment. We believe that there will be significant adoption of this technology throughout our customer base.”
