CXT Software Adds Seasoned Executive to Leadership Team

Phoenix, AZ, March 6, 2009. CXT Software, a leader in providing automation technology to same-day delivery and distribution businesses, announces today that Darin Soll has joined its leadership team as Chief Executive Officer. "Darin rounds out our team with his proven technology leadership, organizational development, and business process experience," explains Dan Calderone, President and co-founder of CXT Software. "With Darin running our business day-to-day, my partner and I can re-focus our energies on the creative side of CXT Software--research, development, and other strategic initiatives."

"I am very excited about the opportunity to lead CXT Software into a new growth phase," Mr. Soll states. "As a consumer of business application software in my previous role as a Chief Information Officer, I gained insights that will serve me well as I transition back to the supplier side."

CXT Software co-founder Lyndon Edmonson adds, "With the professional management experience Darin brings to our table, Dan and I can get back to doing what we do best--hatching new and improved ideas and bringing them to our markets."
