CXT Software Adds Chris Geer to Development Team

Phoenix, AZ, February 1, 2012. CXT Software, a leader in providing automation technology to expedited delivery and last-mile distribution businesses, announced today that Chris Geer has joined its team in the role of Architect.

“Chris brings significant depth in enterprise software architecture, design, and development to the team,” according to Derek Figg, CXT Software’s Vice President of Engineering. “He is already making an impact, and his ability to evaluate advanced technologies and lead the implementation of those technologies will be a huge asset.”

“I’m excited to join the CXT Software team,” Chris explains. “In my new position, I’ll have the opportunity to utilize my 12 years of systems architecture and software development experience to provide solutions to our customers that can scale with their expanding business needs.”

Chris holds a Bachelor’s degree from Purdue University and a Masters in Information Science from Penn State. He resides in the Phoenix area with his wife and two children.
